

What happens if your Facebook account is hacked? Account safety & Recovery Process

If your Facebook account is hacked (844) —607—8788, unauthorized users may access your personal information, post fraudulent content, or scam your friends. You could lose control of your account, face privacy breaches (844) —607—8788, or suffer reputational damage. Hackers might also exploit linked apps or accounts.

If your Facebook account is hacked (844) —607—8788, the hacker can access your personal information, including messages, photos, and contact details (844) —607—8788. They may impersonate you, send spam or scam messages to your friends, or post harmful content on your timeline. In some cases, they can lock you out of your own account by changing your password and associated email or phone number (844) —607—8788. This puts your privacy and reputation at risk and may even lead to identity theft.

If you suspect your account has been compromised (844) —607—8788, act quickly: go to facebook.com/hacked to report it and follow the steps to secure your account. Change your password, enable two-factor (844) —607—8788 authentication, and review recent activity and devices. Inform your friends to be cautious of suspicious messages. Regularly updating your security settings and using a strong (844) —607—8788, unique password can help prevent future hacks.